

whites have locked up in a small minority amongst themselves the great proportion of the country's wealth and if have a mere change of face of those in government positions what will happen is blacks will continue to be poor and you will get a few blacks filtering into the so called bourgeoisie and our society will be run almost as of yesterday so that for meaningful change to occur there has to be a reorganisation of the whole economic pattern and economic policies ... especially in industries like mining... forestry...complete ownership of land...

[for the future] we see a completely non racial society... in our country there will be no minorities ... just the people ... and those people will have equal rights before the law... there are many things to learn... people are not necessarily revengeful [nor] sadistic... the black man has got no ill intentions for the white man the black man is only incensed with the white man to the extent that he wants to entrench himself in positions of power to exploit the black man but beyond that nothing more...

Unfortunately in the course of human events we have a situation where one group nation people often sees that its advantage can only be served by the retardation and destruction and distortion of contingents of other people of other peoples nations... that they're potentials must not be realised that they must not fulfil their genetic and human possibilities for the fulfilment of those possibilities represent their own over throw and loss of power and therefore if they have a military political social and economic advantage over that over group they will often use that advantage to retard the development of the other group and this is what we are faced with here today... we have here ruling this world today a European group... who apparently see their advantage as only pertaining to them and remaining there to the extent that they can distort and destroy the potential of other people, particular the potential of African people and therefore they will arrange eth world in such a way that that potential can be destroyed ... the position of serving the interests of another people ...

Inferiority in black people is a political and social necessity... when we talk about abnormality in the black personality... feelings of self hatred... alienation... hatred... incompetence... powerlessness... we must recognise that these feelings are a political and economic necessity and we must start from that premise if we are to understand the psychology of black people... it is necessary for us to be crazy... backwards... maladjusted... disunited... self-hating... filled with an inferiority complex... the [European, 10%] if that 10% is to continue to rule over the other 90% it must keep that 90% out of its mind... in a state of deception.. filled with a feeling of incompetence and powerlessness... it must continue to rob Africans, Asians and other nations of their material wealth... and this implies then that no matter how much integration you bring about the feeling of inferiority must remain as a constant in the black personality... no matter how many people you run for president... the basic sense of inferiority... [and] dependency must be made a constant in the black man

Black maladjustment is functionally necessary for the world as it is currently constituted... when you go to these universities and these schools... the whites want to do a game on us when they for instance name their courses without putting their ethnicity in front of it. They don't say white psychology, white education [etc]... and we often naively assume... that we are in a course that has genuinely universal meaning and we are made to think that we are odd when we call a course black studies; that there is something wrong with it but every course... is a course of white studies... designed for essentially the same thing, to maintain white dominance we must be very conscious of that ...
